September is National Emergency Preparedness Month

Businesses play a role in preparing for emergencies and developing resilient communities. Preparing the workforce, building safe facilities, investing in supplier relationships, and connecting to the community are all key pillars of true business community resilience—from the boardroom to the storefront. One easy step to start: encourage your staff to register with emergency notification systems.

- To get community alerts, text the Los Altos zip code (94022 or 94024) to NIXLE at the number 888777.
- To get emergency notifications from the County, register or update home addresses and contact info with the Santa Clara County notification system at www.AlertSCC.org, or with your home county's system.

Pumpkins in the Workplace?

Distribute the pumpkins to employees to wash and bake. Or, add them to the compost pile at home to keep them out of the landfill. If needed, please place all pumpkins in your organics bin. Cutting pumpkins into small pieces will make them easier to dispose of.
